

Oswald Murdered In Dallas City Hall

GUNMAN MOVES IN TO SHOOT OSWALD — Jack Ruby, Dallas nightclub owner, steps out with a gun in hand a moment before Lee Oswald, hands crossed, was shot in the stomach at the Dallas city jail Sunday. Oswald, charged with assassination of President Kennedy, was being moved to another jail at the time.

JFK Slaying 'Blueprint' Found

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Lee Harvey Oswald may have left behind in death a blueprint for the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Oswald was slain Sunday by Jack Ruby, 52, a night club owner and self-appointed executioner, who undertook swift, savage reprisal for the Kennedy murder.

Hours later, the Dallas Morning News, in a copyrighted story, said police officers who searched Oswald's room found a map with a line on it marking the path of the bullet that killed the President during a motorcade Friday. Neither the FBI nor the Secret Service would comment on the news report.

Quoted Reliable Source

The newspaper quoted what it termed a reliable source as saying:

"This was a map of the City of Dallas. Oswald had placed marks at major intersections along the motorcade route — three or four as I recall. There was also a line from the Texas School Book Depository Building to Elm Street. This was the trajectory of the bullets which struck the President and Gov.

(John) Connally."

The map may have constituted what police termed "major evidence" against Oswald in Kennedy's assassination, but which they had refused to reveal.

The News said officers theorized Oswald marked spots on the map from which a sniper could get a good shot at the Kennedy motorcade.

Meanwhile, from Mexico City came another report—this time that Oswald visited the Soviet and Cuban consuls in September and tried to get a visa.

Did Not Name Official

The newspaper Excelsior attributed its report to a high official source which it did not name.

Oswald died Sunday with a single bullet wound in the side, fired by Ruby as he stepped from a crowd of 200 in the basement of the Dallas City Hall.

"It's too good for him!" someone shouted after the 24-year-old self-styled Communist dropped in his tracks, a single cry of anguish escaping his lips. Police quickly overwhelmed and disarmed Ruby. It was an incredible climax to the wildest weekend in Dallas history—a savage, sudden moment of raw drama that was caught by national television networks and broadcast with shocking impact into American living rooms.

"He took Kennedy's death much harder than that of our 88-year-old father five years ago," said Ruby's older sister, Eva Grant. "He couldn't eat Friday. He kept talking about Jackie and the Kennedy kids."

Oswald Formally Accused

Oswald had been formally accused of the sniper assassination of Kennedy last Friday as the President rode beaming beside his wife, Jacqueline Kennedy, in a triumphal motorcade through downtown Dallas.

Also wounded in the shooting was Texas Gov. John Connally, who is recovering. Later, authorities said, Oswald shot to death a Dallas policeman, J. D. Tippit, who—wittingly or otherwise—interrupted his getaway flight.

The first reaction of Dallas police to Oswald's murder was to mark the assassination case closed, and concentrate on trying to convict Ruby.

But federal officials felt otherwise. President Johnson ordered a full government probe of Oswald's slaying, and the FBI proposed further investigation into the presidential assassination with the hope of eventually giving the American

Services Held All Over World

Only Red China Has No Observance

LONDON (AP) — Governments and men and women around the world joined today in mourning services for President Kennedy. Their grief was mixed with shock and astonishment at the assassination of Lee H. Oswald.

They started in the Far East, where Nov. 25 first dawned, and followed around the globe as it turned to the sun.

Only in Communist China was there no official observance of the President's funeral. The Chinese Reds reported Kennedy's death Friday, but have made no comment on it. Sunday, however, they assailed President Johnson, saying he supported reactionary policies under Kennedy.

Thousands of American soldiers attended memorial services in South Korea. Most of the 50,000 GI's were taken off duty to observe the day of mourning and attend the services.

Japanese Emperor Hirohito sent Crown Prince Akihito and Crown Princess Michiko to memorial services at Tokyo's St. Ignatius Church. The government ordered the Japanese flag flown at half staff over all government buildings today and Tuesday.

At U.S. bases throughout Japan the big guns roared final salutes over the heads of 50,000 servicemen and their dependents, assembled in a cold rain. Most of the 10,000 Americans on Formosa attended religious services for the President. Thousands of Chinese from all walks of life joined them. Nationalist China's flags also were at half staff.

But much of the atmosphere

Woman Dead, Man Critically Ill

Fumes Overcome Couple In Car

A Salem woman is dead and a man is reported "critical" after they were found in an auto on W. Main Ext. about one and one-half miles west of Leetonia at about 10:30 a.m. today.

The woman, tentatively identified as Kathryn Funkhauser, 38, of W. 6th St., was pronounced dead on arrival at Salem City Hospital, apparently of carbon monoxide poisoning.

The man was tentatively identified as Apolonio Delacruz, 37, of W. 2nd St., an employee of the Deming Co.

Two hunters discovered the bodies and flagged down an Ohio Bell Telephone Co. repairman, Lamonte Merriott, who notified the state highway patrol and the Columbiana County sheriff's office.

The car, a two-tone Packard, had reportedly been seen parked just off the berm of the highway since last Friday. However, one witness at the scene said he saw the couple Saturday morning in a restaurant.

Attendants of the Beacon Ambulance Service in Leetonia said Delacruz was sitting behind the

Adjournment Drive Grows

GOP Chief Asks Congress Recess

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tax reduction and civil rights, President Kennedy's top legislative proposals, appeared likely today to be temporarily sidetracked by a drive to adjourn Congress and give President Johnson a breathing spell.

The push for early adjournment was led by House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana and had substantial backing from members of both parties who believe Congress should adjourn and engage in no more bickering this year. The two pending proposals are the most controversial in Congress.

Halleck's adjournment target is Dec. 14. Democratic leaders have called for continuation of the session until Jan. 3, with a Christmas recess of two weeks. Jan. 3 is the date for opening of

Throngs Line Streets For Procession

WASHINGTON (AP) — A grieving capital—and the world—said goodbye today to John F. Kennedy, dynamic in life and revered in his martyr's death.

The broad streets were lined by hundreds of thousands of people, many of them weeping, as the flag-draped coffin drawn by six white horses went by.

After it came the young widow, Jacqueline, a black veil shielding her face and draping her shoulders. For the first stage of the slow, sad journey she rode in a black limousine.

At the Capitol, 240,000 persons filed past the bier before the funeral procession.

The great copper dome of St. Matthew's Cathedral, blue-green from decades of weathering, glistened in a crisp, clear day as the cortege approached it for the requiem Mass.

As the procession came by the White House on the way to the cathedral the Marine band played a dirge. Earlier, the strains of "Onward Christian Soldiers" had filled the air.

Along with the 34-year-old widow of the fallen chief executive, and sorrowing with her, went one of the greatest arrays of world statesmen ever assembled. From 53 countries they came—26 as heads of state or government.

Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston, an old friend of the Kennedy family, came to celebrate the Mass at the church named for St. Matthew the evangelist and apostle.

The youthful President, who sought peace in an age of hot and cold wars, finds his own peace beside the nation's heroes in Arlington National Cemetery—in a grave overlooking the memorial of another martyred president, Abraham Lincoln.

Hopes For New President

But with the prayers for the dead there were hopes for the new President, Lyndon B. Johnson, who briefly lays aside the awesome problems he inherited to lead 26 presidents, prime ministers and kings in paying respect to the assassinated Kennedy.

Not since the burial of the Unknown Soldier 40 years ago has there been such a gathering in Washington.

And many, if not all, of the 100 or so dignitaries—including French President Charles de Gaulle, Prince Phillip and Prime Minister Alec Douglas-Home of Britain, Chancellor

Evidence Against Deceased Suspect Cited

No Doubt About It: Oswald Was Guilty, Police Declare

By PEGGY SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer
DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — "This is it—I've sent men to the electric chair on less evidence than we have against Lee Harvey Oswald."

Dist. Atty. Henry Wade made the claim as he revealed the evidence which convinced Dallas officers they had an airtight case against the accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy.

"There is no doubt in my mind that Oswald was the killer," Wade said.

Nine hours before Wade spoke to newsmen Sunday night, Oswald, 24, was fatally shot by Jack Ruby, owner of a Dallas lounge. The shooting occurred in the police headquarters basement in front of hundreds of police, Secret Service, FBI men and newsmen, as Oswald was being escorted to an armored car for transportation to new jail quarters.

Newspaper Report Map
Not long after Wade finished describing what he said was all the evidence against Oswald, the Dallas Morning News said in a copyrighted story that officers had found a map in Oswald's room which marked the path of the bullets which killed Kennedy and wounded Texas Gov. John Connally Friday afternoon. Wade had made no mention of this.

The newspaper said the map outlined Kennedy's motorcade route, and a line was drawn from the Texas School Book Street, where the President and Connally were shot.

Police officers available said they knew nothing of any map. In Washington, the Secret Service and FBI had no comment.

Wade said two facts stood high in the mass of evidence linking the slim, brown-haired Oswald to the slaying.

First, a palm print on the underside of the rifle which fired the bullets that killed Kennedy was identified as Oswald's.

Placed Inside Building
Secondly, Wade said, Oswald had definitely been placed inside the building at the time shots were fired from there at Kennedy.

"The gun was here, his prints were on the gun, the gun was the gun that killed Kennedy, his palm prints were on the box on which the killer sat, and witnesses put him on the sixth floor at the time of the shooting."

Asked if he believed Oswald was slain to keep him from talking, Wade said police were looking into that angle, but so far no connection has been established between Oswald and Ruby.

"There is no concrete evidence to go on that there is anyone else connected with the assassination," Wade said, but added that some aspects of the case may still be investigated.

The district attorney said that because Ruby's slaying of Oswald was an assassination "I am certain that I can get the death penalty for Ruby. Ruby walked up to a man who was handcuffed and defenseless and cold-bloodedly assassinated him."

Added Several Details
Wade added several specific details to evidence previously brought out.

He said Oswald bought the Italian-made assassination rifle in March from a Chicago mail order firm, at a cost of slightly more than $12. The FBI, he said, confirmed the serial number of the mail order rifle matched that of the rifle that fired the shots at Kennedy.

Wade said police found a photograph showing Oswald holding the rifle, at what he called an "at attention" stance. In one hand, Oswald held the rifle and in the other copies of the Daily Worker and a Fascist publication, The Militant.

There was no evidence that showed Oswald was a member of the Communist party, Wade said. "However, there was lots of material dealing with communism, such as the Daily Worker, and there was even more material dealing with the Fair Play for Cuba organization."

Officers said earlier Oswald told them he was a Communist, and was proud of it.

Wade also said three ejected shells, of an odd calibre that came from the assassination rifle found on the floor, were located near the box at the ambush window where a palm print of Oswald's was impressed.

Meeting With De Gaulle Eyed

LBJ Plunges Into Diplomatic Stress

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson travels the last miles with John F. Kennedy today—and then sets his own course in meetings with a massive array of world statesmen. Everyone watched for clues as to how Johnson would get along with President Charles de Gaulle of France. De Gaulle differed from Kennedy on such great questions as NATO, the European Common Market, and the French government's insistence on its own nuclear force.

Whether Johnson, noted as a master persuader when he was the Democratic leader of the Senate, would get together with De Gaulle on an in-depth discussion of world affairs was not yet certain. But the possibility remained.

First came the sad task of accompanying the martyred President Kennedy's body to the grave. Part of the journey was to be afoot, from the White House to St. Matthews Cathedral for the requiem mass, then by car to Arlington National Cemetery, for a hero's burial.

After the funeral, Mrs. Kennedy arranged to receive the foreign dignitaries at the White House. Then Johnson plunges into his first round of personal diplomacy as President.

He scheduled a 90-minute reception — 5:30-7 p.m. — for the more than 100 foreign dignitaries who journeyed to Washington to pay their respects to the late President Kennedy.

The social gathering in the State Department's diplomatic reception rooms gives the new President little opportunity for more than a passing contact with foreign leaders with whom he will have more dealings later.

Today's emphasis, however, was on mourning, not international affairs.

But in these swift moving days Johnson had to work business in between the hours of mourning.

Sunday he accompanied the Kennedy cortege from the White House to the Capitol where the flag-draped casket was placed in state under the dome of the rotunda.

He also talked over the federal budget for next year and held a top-level review of the troubled South Vietnamese situation.

Carrying through on an appointment originally set up by Kennedy, Johnson heard a report from the U.S. ambassador to Saigon, Henry Cabot Lodge.

White House sources subsequently announced that Johnson approved this three-point major policy directive:

1. The United States remains determined to help South Vietnam stamp out the Communist Viet Cong.
2. Still in force is the Kennedy objective of withdrawing at least 1,000 U.S. servicemen from Viet Nam by the end of this year, and pulling out virtually the whole contingent of 16,000 men by January 1965.

3. All U.S. personnel in South

Viet Nam should aid the new, post-Diem Saigon government "in its consolidation, in its development of public support for its policies and for winning the war against the Viet Cong."

Sobs, Tears Mark Solemn Procession

Capital: City of Mourning

By HUGH MULLIGAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The mournful beat of muffled drums. The slow clip clop of the horse caisson moving down Pennsylvania Avenue. Caroline and John pressing their faces against the back window of the slow rolling limousine. The silent staring masses shuffling past the flag-draped coffin in the great rotunda of the Capitol.

Tragic and unforgettable, these images of grief shimmer in the air today as the nation observes a day of solemn mourning to mark the funeral of its assassinated leader, John F. Kennedy.

Down an avenue of stifled sobs and open tears, he had passed Sunday on his final journey from the White House to the Capitol, retracing in reverse the route he traveled on the occasion of his triumphant inaugural less than three years before.

300,000 Line Street
A crowd of 300,000, packed tight to the building line along the famous street, doffed their caps and bowed their heads as the black draped caisson, pulled by six white horses and led by a seventh, rolled in stately procession along the mile-long route.

Just behind pranced the riderless horse, symbol of the slain warrior, with its pair of empty cavalry boots reversed in the stirrups and a saber in a silver scabbard swinging from its saddle. Led by a military man, the dark bay horse was Mrs. Kennedy's Sardin.

Next came a single sailor carrying the personal flag of the President, then Mrs. Kennedy and the children riding in a limousine with President and Mrs. Johnson and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy. At one point in the procession, Robert Kennedy lifted John, whose third birthday is today, onto his knee. Mrs. Kennedy clutched Caroline's hand.

Ahead Of Caisson
Ahead of the caisson-bearing the casket, marched an honor guard composed of the joint chiefs of staff and the commanders of the Marine Corps and Coast Guard, clergymen of the three major faiths, and a company of Navy enlisted men, who marched in memory of the young Navy lieutenant and war hero who became their commander in chief.

John F. Kennedy's final ascent up the broad Capitol steps he had once climbed as a young congressman and senator and then as the youngest man ever elected president were marked by the distant booming of a 21-gun salute and the slow strains of a service band playing "Hail to the Chief."

Erect and staring straight ahead, Mrs. Kennedy followed the casket up the steps, leading the children by the hand.

As Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Chief Justice Earl Warren and House Speaker John McCormack intoned the eulogies over the public address system, the crowd began forming itself into a long line, waiting its turn to move into the rotunda and file past the flag-draped coffin.

Spontaneity of Affection
It was the same spontaneity of affection that had caused thousands to break through the police barriers and join in line behind the funeral cortege as it moved down Pennsylvania Avenue. Nothing like it had ever happened before at a presidential funeral.

All through the night people came to the Capitol. With slow steps and solemn faces they filed past the bier.

Some crossed themselves as they walked by, some dabbed at their eyes with sodden handkerchiefs, most stared with long unwavering gaze, their faces soft, their eyes sad.

No one spoke. But not anything, not the leg-weary weight nor the numbing cold produced a word of complaint from the endless line of people.

Would they have come, dozens were asked, if they had known how long it would take. Of course, they replied. "He was our President."

Columbiana Social Notes

COLUMBIANA BRANCH of Salem City Hospitals Auxiliary held an election of officers at their sewing session Monday at Grace United Church of Christ.

Mrs. Harry Miller was elected president of the group with Mrs. Walter Miller, vice-president; Mrs. Byron Snyder, secretary-treasurer; and Miss Beulah Zellars, publicity chairman.

Twelve dozen surgical wrappers were completed by members for donation to the hospitals.

Cyclist Unhurt When Hit By Automobile

A 12-year-old Salem girl was uninjured when the bicycle she was riding was struck by an auto at 12:15 p.m. Saturday on Superior Ave.

Arthur R. Shinn, 69, of 925 South Ave. told police that he was traveling north behind Betsy Glibb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Glibb of 463 E. 4th St., when the girl turned her bicycle behind a truck parked along the street. Shinn said that as he began to pass the truck, Betsy came back out onto the street and into his path.

In a mishap at 2:30 a.m. today, Janice Marie Baxter, 21, of RD 4, Salem, went off the right side of S. Ellsworth Ave., 50 feet north of Pershing St. and knocked over two parking meters. She told police her windshield was fogged.

The Lisbon High School Band played two numbers, and a wreath was placed around a picture of the late President, followed by a gun salute and taps by Ronnie Bacon, with echo by James Kelm. Rev. William Hoffman of St. George's Catholic Church gave the benediction.

Robert Kelm was in charge of parade to the square.

A memorial service in charge of the Ministerial Association of Lisbon followed at 11 in the First Methodist church. All members of the association took part.

Long Live the Republic

No moment in the nation's life is so solemn as the transfer of presidential power in an emergency.

Every citizen feels a personal stake in this life-and-death transfusion to save the Republic.

The King is dead—Long live the King! The President is dead—Long live the Republic!

What once was only an urge to perpetuate a throne now is the instinct of the American people to save popular sovereignty and the dignity of man it has made possible in their republic.

The instinct is so strong, so irrepressible, it almost takes precedence over the compassion owing the family and friends of the President who has died.

No one wants it to seem heartless. But this is the way it always turns out to be.

IN OUR TIME, with the advent of television cameras that bring historic events before the eyes of the entire nation, there is no lapse of information when the government changes hands.

Americans do not have to wait for news of the transfer of public power. They do not have to read long afterward how Calvin Coolidge's aged father administered the oath of office in a Vermont farm house; they now are at the scene, watching and listening.

The government goes on without pause, gathers fresh momentum, reorganizes itself and begins to reflect the thoughts of its new chief before the last sad rites for the fallen leader have been finished.

Lyndon B. Johnson now stands at the center of national power.

He is the beneficiary of the policy instituted by President Eisenhower of keeping the vice president informed of presidential problems. He knows what has been going on.

The country, in turn, is the beneficiary of the new president's personal characteristics. He is no stranger to public power. It has been his career.

Before giving up his leadership of the U.S. Senate for the vice presidency of the United States, he was accounted the most powerful individual in the government, due to his personal mastery of legislative persuasion and manipulation.

Unlike Harry Truman, who came to the presidency ill-prepared for responsibility in 1945 because he had not been an integral part of government, this second Democratic vice president to become president in less than 20 years, is thoroughly knowledgeable about the federal government.

But his task will be perhaps more trying than Mr. Truman's because there is no war in progress to give the country a sense of fixed purpose.

WE ARE FACTIONED and frustrated by deadlocks over public issues.

We are torn and divided by a civil rights dispute that has divided and paralyzed the Democratic party—the same dispute that Lyndon Johnson handled in 1960 as the party's ranking expert in reconciling the South. That is why he was given the second spot on the Democratic ticket in 1960.

His predecessor's legislative program is stalled in Congress.

The Kennedy group in the executive branch of the federal government will have no illusions about the new chief executive's confidence in them. Some of them will not be compatible.

President Johnson was put on the Democratic ticket in 1960 because he represented the Democratic South. The Kennedy loyalists whom he must work with as he starts the trying task of organizing his administration are opponents of the Democratic South.

It is to be expected that many of them will make way for Johnson men.

President Kennedy had gone to Texas to patch up serious rifts in party organization; he was on a campaign trip.

It is to be expected now that President Johnson will go after the Democratic nomination in 1964 as a matter of right and soon will be as preoccupied with campaigning as his predecessor had become.

NEVER HAS THERE been more reason for political speculation than there is at this moment when the Democratic party leadership must be reoriented on the eve of a national election.

Every political factor has been turned upside down.

There has been a corresponding upheaval for Republicans.

The Republican candidate next year will not be running not against an odds-on favorite to win a second term but against a political dark horse seeking a first term—and President Johnson, unlike President Truman after Franklin Roosevelt's death will not have nearly a full term to get in stride.

Some will resent what will seem to them to be only a cataclysmic upset in their personal political plan.

But the American people as a whole have no political plans—only the instinct to save their sovereignty and the dignity of freedom.

The vitality and charm of the Kennedys made an indelible impression.

But there now is going to be a new First Family. Lyndon and Lady Bird Johnson and their two daughters will grace the White House as the government reorganizes itself after a tragic shock.

The President is dead...
Long live the Republic!

Reconsidering the TVA

By RAYMOND MOLEY

Sen. Barry Goldwater seems to have sent a tremor over the land by suggesting that the Tennessee Valley Authority be liquidated. The full statement of his plan is wholly reasonable, but the very suggestion of tampering with this institution troubles his friends and excites his enemies.

Gen. Eisenhower who, as I remember, called the TVA "creeping socialism" now furrows his brow because any candidate would touch what has become "an emotional way of life."

The TVA is just that. Schools and colleges in which the curriculums show sad neglect of basic American history and Anglo-American political institutions arrange visits to the valley for whole classes.

There, in the presence of roaring generators, falling waters, and black smoke, every head is bowed before what is mislabeled "democracy in action."

In the 1932 campaign, Roosevelt merely said that he favored federal development of the World War I installation at Muscle Shoals on the Tennessee River. The vast paternalism that emerged the next year was the idea of Sen. George Norris.

WHEN ROOSEVELT was approached with the idea that, after the federal government had built the dam and generators, the power should be sold to the taxpaying, investor-owned power companies in the area, he said, "See George Norris. It's his baby."

The incomplete installation at Muscle Shoals had been built during World War I to provide nitrogen for war use. It was not intended to be used as a monopolistic government business. But when Roosevelt launched the project in 1933 he said it "would lead to complete national planning... involving many states and the future lives and welfare of millions."

Four years later, Roosevelt was so enthusiastic about this "baby" that he proposed that the whole nation be marked out in valley authorities which would, in fact, largely supersede the states. But Congress killed proposals for a Missouri Valley Authority and a Columbia Valley Administration.

THE BASIC TVA act itself is a curious document. It required that the members of the five-man governing board should be in sympathy with the purposes of the institution, purposes which in their aggregate were the creation of a vast welfare state.

A member could be removed for "contumacy," an old legal term which meant, as Roosevelt used it, disagreeing with the President or with fellow members.

The constitutional justification was alleged to be flood control, reforestation, navigation and other federal concerns.

As it stands, the TVA is in reality a government within and largely independent of the federal government. Many of its activities are duplications of functions already provided for in federal departments.

Federal money was lent at 1 per cent interest. And recently the TVA was empowered to issue its own bonds, a practice which was soundly condemned by the comptroller general of the United States.

This would enable the TVA to expand far beyond its original boundaries.

DESPITE THE VAST expenditures for the alleged purpose of navigation, there has been no commensurate increase in river-borne commerce. And if there should be, it would greatly increase the distress of the railroads.

As far as flood control is concerned, the Army Engineers estimated that the damage from floods would normally equal in cost only half the amount spent to prevent them.

This monopoly almost immediately drove the private power companies from the area. No business can compete with a federal subsidy.

Goldwater's suggestions are that such functions as are duplications of activities in other departments should be turned over to those departments. Also, he says that TVA activities which have no counterparts should be sold and put under strict government supervision as to rates, etc.

No one in the Valley, Goldwater explains, would lose any of the services they already have. And government would be gotten out of matters which should never have been assumed.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann: I just wrote a letter to you describing my problem. Before sealing the envelope I reread it and was dumbfounded. Why? Because I suddenly realized I have read dozens of letters exactly like it—in your column.

Strange how each of us has a blind spot and thinks "I'm different. The rules don't apply to me."

Here is the same tired story: Middle-aged woman— attractive, hungry for the excitement of an affair. Rationalizes that her husband takes her for granted. The years are slipping away—she needs more affection.

A middle-aged man, also married, and in their social crowd, confides that he has been smitten by her for years. His wife is cold and unfriendly. If it weren't for the children he'd get a divorce. How unfortunate that they didn't meet 20 years ago!

After a few months of sneaking around, the Romeo becomes tired of her and suggests they'd better stop seeing each other "for awhile" because his wife is getting wise. So the lady gets the brushoff, plus heartache and humiliation.

I almost believed his lies until I suddenly recognized the familiar ring of my letter. I know now my affair was just like the others—cheap and meaningless.

Perhaps this letter will waken some other middle-aged women who feel the need for excitement. — MY NAME IS LEGION.

Dear Legion: Thanks for a frank and humble letter. I can add nothing.

Reveille at 6:30 a.m.

Dear Ann: I'm a girl who always has loved band music. My big ambition was to be in a band. Now that I'm a freshman in high school I have signed up for trumpet lessons. I really preferred the clarinet but they have plenty of clarinet players and they were short on trumpets, so I agreed to help them out.

The problem is my father. He says he can't stand to hear me practice because it gives him a headache. Furthermore, it reminds him of when he was in the Army and he says he is breaking out with the same nervous itch he had then.

I know I'm not very good yet, Ann, but how can I get better if I don't practice?

The best time for me to practice is early in the morning, about 6:30 a.m. My father's alarm doesn't go off until 7:30 and he says he needs that extra hour. Both my father and I would like your opinion on this. Is he wrong or am I? — SARA.

Dear Sara: Sorry, Toots, but I'm casting my vote with dad. You can practice either after school or at school. Most schools have practice rooms which you can use if you ask—and I hope yours is one of them.

Widow's Plight

Dear Ann: Why is it that the moment a woman is left a widow she is surrounded by relatives, friends and neighbors—for about three weeks. The house is filled with too many people, too much food, too many flowers. The attention is overwhelming.

Then, suddenly, the house is empty, the phone is silent and nobody comes near her.

My husband has been gone three months. Now that the shock has worn off and I really NEED friends, I'm alone.

In retrospect, those people who were hovering around me used my grief as an opportunity to get together socially and enjoy themselves. As I recall it, they all had a pretty good time in my home night after night.

It has taken me 54 years to wake up to the realization that people are no darned good—and you can quote me. — DESERTE.

Dear Deserter: Your quote is such a tired one I hope you'll forgive me if I offer a substitute: "Gratitude has a short memory."

Surely you didn't think the hand—holding would last forever, my dear. Now that your friends and family have returned to the business of attending to their own lives you are bitter and resentful. It's like I said—"Gratitude has a short memory."

Where There's Smoke

Dear Ann: I'm in a tough spot and don't know what to do. During lunch period a certain bunch of girls smoke in the school washroom. A lot of kids know who these girls are because they have been seen many times.

Friday in English class I went up to the teacher to ask about a special assignment, she said, "Have you been smoking?" I answered, "No." Then she said, "Don't lie to me. I can smell smoke on your clothing."

When I told her once again that I don't smoke she became angry and said, "Perhaps you will be able to persuade the principal when he calls you into his office to discuss this."

So far I haven't heard from the principal, but what if I do get called in? Shall I tell him what I know? I need some advice fast. — NOT GUILTY.

Dear Not Guilty: Tell the principal the truth: that you do NOT smoke but have smelled smoke on your clothing because sometimes you are in the presence of students who do use cigarettes. But under no circumstances should you name names.

Today In History

Today is Monday, Nov. 25, the 329th day of 1963. There are 36 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1874, the Greenback party was organized at Indianapolis and adopted a platform of advocating payment of the national debt with greenbacks. The party's first presidential candidate, Peter Cooper of New York, received less than 82,000 votes in the 1875 election.

On this date:

In 1783, the British evacuated New York City after holding it for more than seven years of the Revolutionary War.

In 1863, the Battle of Missionary Ridge was fought during the Civil War.

In 1922, Benito Mussolini was granted dictatorial powers in Italy.

In 1943, an American naval force sank four Japanese destroyers in the Southwest Pacific during World War II.

In 1950, gales of near hurricane force, accompanied by rain and snow, swept 22 states from the East Coast to the Middle West, killing 278 persons and causing damage estimated at $400 million. Ten years ago—the chief justice of U.S. courts in Germany, William Clark, said he would contest his dismissal by the American State Department.

Five years ago—the former head of research at General Motors—Charles Kettering—died at 82.

One year ago—Candidates pledged to support President Charles de Gaulle won an absolute majority in the French National Assembly in two-round legislative elections.

Cotton Corners

By Tuman Twill

Dear Nephew: We two old parties here at the Corners are watching with beady-eyed interest the showdown on public investigations. Maybe you aren't aware of this. You should be.

Public investigations are carried on by public officials, necessarily. Or at the very least, they are carried on by professional investigators under the authority of public officials.

This demands that the officials come to the task with clean hands. Whether their hands are clean or not may have no bearing on their ability to ferret out information, but it is bound to have everything to do with their right to carry on investigations.

The American public is long-suffering. It is good-natured. But it has its breaking point. One thing dead certain sure to bring it to the breaking point is bad repute among investigators and law enforcers. No self-respecting citizen is going to grin and bear it if he is shoved around by someone who has foregone his right to sit in judgment.

THIS IS WHY your aunt and I are beady-eyed; we're fascinated. Here before our wondering gaze is unfolding one of the dramatic clashes of power in this generation.

Congress is being asked to investigate itself. Instead of manhandling persons accused of misbehavior in other branches of the government, legislators will be required to make a clean breast of their own behavior.

This could balloon up to proportions that would make Teapot Dome seem like petit larceny. It could rattle the foundations and bridge-work of the Republic.

The issue is as ticklish as whether or not the U.S. Senate would finish what Dwight D. Eisenhower and the Department of the Army started in that historic showdown with the late Joe McCarthy of Wisconsin.

Until and unless that select committee under Sen. Arthur Warkins of Utah demonstrated it could restore legislative integrity, the future of the United States teetered in its balance. The same thing is now at stake in the inquiry being conducted by North Carolina's Sen. J. Everet Jordan.

If the impression is made that senators spray one another with Canel No. 5 and all outsiders with essence of skunk because they can get away with it, call the meat-wagon, Nellie. Then will go your representative democracy aster than you can say "Aaron urr."

YOUR AUNT and I feel sad because first things are put last and last things first. Most of what is happening in the news seems to us to be a put-up job, designed to catch headlines.

The most important thing is the test to find out whether representative democracy can be self-cleansing or whether corruption is self-perpetuating in a government with no absolute authority at the head of it.

We hope you will enjoy your streamlined turkey roll this Thanksgiving. We'd have been glad to give you a bird as usual, but it is not our province to fight progress. Regards to all.

COTTON CORNERS UNCLE GEORGE

It Worked

Due to the fame he earned as an author and an expert on birds, Robert I. Stroud—the "Birdman of Alcatraz"—may have proved a point against himself about lifetime imprisonment.

Stroud was in prison 54 years. He had committed murder twice. If he had been released, he probably would have murdered again, because of his violent temper. But his pleas for freedom were unheeded. He died where he belonged, safe from himself.

He never would have agreed he was better off in jail. But by improving himself, he proved a point usually neglected—that prison can be and sometimes is a place where people capable of improvement can live lifetimes of service and satisfaction, protected from the weaknesses that caused them to be deprived of the freedom they cannot be trusted to enjoy.

By DON COOK

Herald Tribune News Service
WEST BERLIN—For this city, the year since the Cuban crisis has been one of peace and uninterrupted progress.

There have been no blockades, no threats, no menaces of major proportions.

West Berlin, in short, has been pretty well left alone to find its own feet, its place in Germany and a new raison d'être. The result has been a triumph for normalcy.

The old theory that West Berlin needed a periodic dose of "crisis benzadrine" to keep it alive can be forgotten. It is now a thriving, normal German city which attracts business, labor, production orders and visitors with more verve than Frankfurt or Stuttgart or Dusseldorf.

West Berlin's Alive

West Berlin is now alive for itself—not because it is being kept alive as a dramatically symbolic outpost. It has achieved in this year of peace a sort of built-in economic and social momentum of its own, the feel of a big, normal, important and virile city.

There are traffic jams on the broad streets when the downtown shops and offices close and the crowds start home. West Berlin is producing more, building more, earning and saving more than at any time in its post-war years. The surface brilliance of Kurfurstendamm has given way to something more solid—a genuineness is now behind the glitter.

Statistics lag

The general statistics of the year lag somewhat behind the overall impression. But even the numbers reflect the new trends in the city. Population, for example, which fell during 1962 by about 1,000 persons each month, has climbed at about the same rate since March.

This reflects a steady stream of young workers and university students from West Germany. And in West Berlin the problem of population balance is complicated by the fact that it is still statistically an "old city," with many more deaths than births.

Unemployment is currently about 8,000 out of a total population of 2,130,000. When the Wall went up in August of 1961, West Berlin numbered 2,216,000—but economically the key figure is not population but productivity. With 35,000 fewer people, the city is producing and earning more each month. The production index, which stood at 167 at the end of 1961, advanced to 170 in 1962 and is currently averaging at 174.

Savings Deposits of Record

Savings deposits in the Berlin banks—the most certain index of public earnings and public confidence—are the highest in the city's history—1,705 million deutschmarks, nearly 400 million higher than the month the Wall went up.

At the same time, air traffic in and out of West Berlin is 30 per cent higher than it was a year ago, and the number of visitors is now averaging above 50,000 a month. The city is one of the toughest in Europe when it comes to booking a hotel room on short notice.

Perhaps the most revealing indication of the new "normalcy" of Berlin is the sudden increase in real estate values. A year ago, anybody wishing to buy a house in the luxurious suburb of Dahlem would have had little trouble locating a seller. There was no panic, it was a house buyer's market. Today it is a seller's market.

Real estate values have risen in the last four months by from 20 to 25 per cent. The rise dates from President Kennedy's Berlin visit—which, following on six months of post-Cuban calm, convinced many that Berlin was a good long-term investment and a stable place to live.

So They Say

The fate of our world could well hang on the outcome of the race between production and reproduction.

—Population Reference Bureau.

The Doctor Says

By Dr. WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT

Don't Take Pneumonia Lightly

Pneumonia has been robbed of much of its terror, thanks to the new wonder drugs. It used to be fatal in over 25 per cent of its victims. Although that figure has been cut to 5 per cent, this is not a disease to be taken lightly. In pneumonia, the disease germs or viruses in the lungs cause an outpouring of serum into the air sacs. The serum clots, and the involved segment of the lung is unable to function properly. Pneumonia is usually a complication of a persistent cold, influenza or other pulmonary infection, but it may also occur after exposure to a high concentration of an irritating gas. The onset is sudden and is attended by a high fever.

IF THE VICTIM is not treated promptly, even though he recovers, he may be left with a serious complication such as pleurisy, an inflammation of the outer lining of the lung; empyema, a collection of pus in the space between the lungs and the chest wall; or the infection may get into the blood stream and damage the heart valves, the kidneys, the joints, the middle ear or the brain.

Because a variety of germs and viruses may cause pneumonia, it is important for your doctor to identify the exact culprit, because the sulfa drug or antibiotic that cures one infection often will not cure another.

PNEUMONIA TAKES ITS

highest toll among the very young, the very old, and the debilitated, especially chronic alcoholics. Coal miners and others who work in a very dusty atmosphere are susceptible to this disease. Unlike measles, an attack of pneumonia gives no immunity, and many persons have lived through several attacks. This may be because, like the common cold, different attacks are probably caused by different organisms.

EARLY DIAGNOSIS and treatment saves lives. If your doctor thinks you should be in a hospital, don't argue. Hospitals are equipped to take care of emergencies and complications as they arise and, if they don't arise, your chances for a speedy recovery will be enhanced by treatment in a hospital. Don't discontinue taking the medicine prescribed until your doctor tells you to. Stopping too soon has caused many a relapse.

Remember that the advances in medical treatment do not depend alone on drugs and doctors, they depend on your co-operation as well.

It spoils the fun of finding a quarter in the pocket of a real old pair of pants when you realize it has lost half its value.

Night Calls

Doctors Still Make Them, But Don't Get As Many

CHICAGO (AP) — What has happened to doctors' old-fashioned night calls at homes? This inquiring reporter made a quick sampling at this week's meeting of the Illinois Academy of General Practice.

Talks with seven family doctors from all parts of the state — all of whom make evening visits — left these impressions:

By and large, family doctors still make night calls. But they get fewer calls because of the patient's consideration for the physician's health and his own money. One medical man estimated fees are 30 to 50 per cent higher after dark.

"The truth is we don't get as many night calls as we used to," said Dr. John D. McCarthy of Riverside, "largely because the patients have increased concern for the doctor's welfare and have become accustomed to going directly to the emergency room in a hospital, especially in cases of trauma. It gets the patient under treatment quicker, with better results and less expense to everybody concerned."

Some of the doctors asked anonymity.

"When the price goes up, people don't call you as often," commented a physician from a small town in Northern Illinois. "I'm glad to make them (calls) now at the price I charge for them."

"I wish I had a dime for every time I had to dress and go out on a call," said a medic from a community of 15,000 in Southern Illinois.

A gray-haired physician from a sizable city in the southern half of the state said he makes nocturnal calls.

"It's getting to the point where a lot of them won't do it," he added. "I was brought up in the old school."

"Our county is 600 square miles, and I even make calls outside the county," said Dr. C. J. Jannings of Fairfield. "I have only one rule — if the patient can't come to me, I go to him."

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

DEAR HELOISE: Here is a hint we discovered that is so fabulous I just must pass on to other mothers. In fact, even for those who have children, it allows for quite a saving.

We have floor furnaces in our home. Something was always being dropped or pushed into the grates . . . or just for fun, the kiddies would stick little things down into them.

One night my husband took a piece of wire screening (left over from repairing), cut it the same size as our floor openings and wired this to each grate on the bottom side of the cover itself.

Heloise, it's absolutely wonderful. Not only does it keep items from falling into the cavity of the heater but it also catches all of the dust which used to land in the heating unit. Once in a while, all we have to do is unwind the piece of screen, hold it under our kitchen faucet upside down, and spray the accumulated dust off the screen. Sure saves us a mess.

CAROL ROSCO.

Now aren't you just the sweetest thing to tell us this? I have checked, gals, and this wire screening can be bought at nearly any hardware or lumber yard for a few cents a foot. It doesn't cost half as much as I thought it did! It's worth a try, huh?

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: If I run out of nuts when I am baking cookies, I lightly crush sugar coated cereal and add to the cookie batter. It's a great substitute.

I keep a large plastic bag in my cookie jar, and put my cookies in the bag instead of directly into the jar and they stay fresh longer.

MARIAN.

DEAR HELOISE: I remove stains from my table linens caused from food, etc., by pouring undiluted vinegar on each spot, let sit a bit, put the linens in my washing machine as usual and the stains are out!

A.B.C.

Ladies, I poured straight undiluted white vinegar on one stain and it did come out. I do not guarantee this to work on every stain as you might have put other solutions on it before, thus, setting it. But, it's worth a try. You don't have anything to lose but a few spoons of vinegar.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: How do you remove mildew from a rubber bath mat?

I.B.K.

DEAR I.B.K.: I suggest that you fill your sink with HOT water, pour in some household bleach (read directions on the side of the bottle) and let it sit awhile!

After all the mildewed marks are gone from the rubber, rinse the mat well.

WELL.

Fill your sink again with warm water adding 4 table-spoons of ammonia. You don't have to measure the ammonia, just go blop, blop, blop from a bottle (all 'blops' are about a spoonful).

Let this soak about 20 minutes or so.

I also suggest that after rinsing off the ammonia solution, you take about one-half cup of vinegar and one-half cup of water and rinse the rubber mat. This also works on many rubber household items such as the rubber-type water hoses we use in washing our hair with, rubber dish drainers, and mats which stay on the drainboard and top of our stoves.

HELOISE.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER
DEAR HELOISE: For mothers with small children:

If two of them are fighting, make them start washing windows. ONE child outside and ever, I still like to have bacon for seasoning wilted lettuce, and to fry once in awhile.

I buy a pound of bacon and put it in our freezer, right in its original package.

As I need bacon I just slice a few strips off the end of our frozen package—from top to bottom—and all the way down the whole pound of bacon and put the rest back in the freezer until I need it.

Bacon seems to last ages without becoming rancid now.

MRS. ELMER THIEL.

FROM HELOISE'S KITCHEN

LADIES: The day the notion strikes you to wash your flour sifter, I beg of you, DON'T put it in hot water first. Hot water and flour make a paste.

Hold the sifter under your cold water faucet spray and remove all of the flour, before you put it in your dishwasher or hot dish water. Will really save trouble later.

HELOISE.

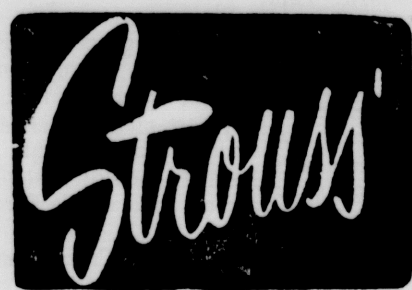

DEAR HELOISE: My daughter took a red crayon and scribbled all over our steps. I was furious when I saw it.

I poured turpentine on the crayon marks, took a little wire brush and rubbed the turpentine in. Then I hosed down the steps and to my surprise they were spotless.

of sorrow began to be tinged with disquiet that the assassin had been at least associated with the Communist party.

Communist propaganda organs reacted immediately to the news of Oswald's killing with charges that he had been slain to cover up the real authors of Kennedy's assassination. The Red press and radio attributed both killings to extreme right-wingers.

The Italian tricolor flew at half staff for the third day, and unions throughout Italy scheduled five-minute pauses of respect for the dead American.

Indian Prime Minister Nehru and President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan attended a memorial service at the U.S. Embassy drove to Parliament to eulogize Kennedy. Both houses adjourned after members stood in silent homage.

Westerners in Moscow paid their respects to Kennedy's memory at Protestant services at Spaso House, residence of U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler, and at Catholic rites at the Soviet capital's one small Roman Catholic church, St. Louis le Francois.

In Poland, flags were at half staff on all official buildings, and the government radio and television stations played appropriate music.

Dancing was banned in night clubs and restaurants and theaters canceled their entertainment.

The Allied garrisons in East Berlin attended memorial services at the U.S. headquarters. Officials of the Berlin city government also were present.

Thousands of Berlin citizens continued to flock to the U.S. headquarters and the City Hall to sign condolence books.

Berliners were to gather at nightfall in the City Hall Square for a ceremony renaming it for Kennedy.

Ludwig Erhard of West Germany—are to join the grieving Mrs. Kennedy in a somber procession that will walk behind the horse-drawn caisson bearing Kennedy's body to St. Matthew's Roman Catholic Cathedral.

Old Friend Of Family

The low pontifical mass is to be celebrated by Richard Cardinal Cushing, archbishop of Boston and an old friend of the Kennedy family.

Because of the space limitations, only those with invitations will be allowed up the 13 steps and into the dark-red brick church.

But in a moving display of sorrow and affection, Americans mighty and humble paid their respects to their slain leader by the hundreds of thousands.

They choked the sidewalks along Pennsylvania Avenue and flooded the capitol grounds Sunday as the late President's body was carried past them on a caisson drawn by six horses. Then came the dark riderless horse, with empty cavalry boots reversed in the stirrups, the traditional symbol of a slain warrior.

Broke Through Lines

And after the procession passed, the crowd of spectators broke through the police lines and by the thousands marched silently up the broad avenue to the white capitol crowning Capitol Hill.

All night long and into the morning they passed the bier lying with its guard of honor under the Capitol rotunda. At times the line extended nine miles, involving a seven-hour wait.

Some cried. Some carried children in arms to let them have a brush with history.

But even as the crowds waited along Pennsylvania Avenue for the start of the procession Sunday a new shock whispered through the throngs:

Lee Harvey Oswald, the 24-year-old Marxist and ex-Marine charged with killing Kennedy, was himself gunned down and died in an emergency room at Dallas' Parkland Hospital, not 10 feet from where Kennedy had died Friday.

Oswald breathed his last shortly after the late President's body was carried by nine servicemen into the Capitol.

Orders Probe By FBI

But for President Johnson, the case was not closed. He ordered the FBI to make an investigation into Oswald's killing in the Dallas jail basement by a self-appointed executioner, Jack Ruby, the operator of a Dallas strip joint.

As Oswald slumped to the floor clawing at his stomach one of the 200 jamming into the basement shouted: "It's too good for him."

Not long after Oswald died hundreds of miles away, Mrs. Kennedy, her eyes shadowed by fatigue and grief, stood with daughter Caroline before the flag-draped casket in the Capitol and heard Chief Justice Earl Warren speak these words in eulogy to the late President:

"If we really love this country; if we truly love justice and mercy; if we fervently want to make this nation better for those who are to follow us, we can at least abjure the hatred that consumes people, the false accusations that divide us, and the bitterness that begets violence."

"Is it too much to hope that the martyrdom of our beloved President might even soften the hearts of those who would themselves recoil from assassination, but who do not shrink from spreading the venom which kindles thoughts of it in others?"

Other Eulogies Delivered

The other eulogies were delivered by the late President's congressional leaders, Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield and House Speaker John W. McCormack, the tall white-haired Bostonian who had watched the Harvard-educated millionaire's son move swiftly up from House to Senate to White House.

"We must thank God," said McCormack, "that we were privileged, however briefly, to have had this great man for president."

John Jr. had also accompanied his mother and sister to the services, but too young to understand fought and finally had to be led away. His third birthday is today.

And then at the end, Mrs. Kennedy walked up to the closed coffin with little Caroline beside her. She knelt and kissed it.

Later in the night and alone except for Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, she returned and passing through the long lines of those who came to pay their respect, she once again knelt and kissed her husband's casket.

the next session of the present Congress.

"We should expedite what we have to do and adjourn," Halleck said in an interview. "Let's give the new President time to get his feet on the ground."

The vehicle for Halleck's adjournment drive is a resolution to provide temporary financing for federal agencies whose appropriations for the present fiscal year have not been made. It is the fourth such resolution since the fiscal year started on July 1 and comes before the House Tuesday.

The new measure would provide funds for the month of December. Halleck will attempt to change the date probably to next Jan. 31 on the assumption that Congress could dispose of other necessary measures between now and Dec. 14.

Democratic leaders already have all but officially given up hope of action this year on civil rights and tax legislation but feel that Congress should remain in session as long as there is any chance for action.

Oswald

people the full story. Later, Dallas Dist. Atty. Henry Wade listed what he said was a complete summary of the evidence against Oswald.

Uprior Follows Slaying
A wild tumult broke out immediately after the shooting of Oswald in the basement of City Hall. But it was nothing compared to the public uproar over the slaying.

Communist propaganda organs abroad promptly depicted Oswald's death as a coverup to mask sinister rightist forces which they blamed for the President's assassination. Moscow bitterly resented the linking of Oswald with communism.

Americans themselves disagreed over the shooting of the cold-eyed Oswald. Some thought he got what he deserved. Others noted that no matter the enormity of the crime charged against him, he still was entitled by law to his day in court.

Amid the furore, Ruby was booked on a murder charge and Dist. Atty. Wade announced he would press for his conviction and execution in the electric chair with the same vigor he had proposed to apply toward Oswald.

Oswald was arrested Friday shortly after Kennedy's assassination and after the slaying of officer Tippit.

He insisted from the outset: "I did not kill President Kennedy. I did not kill anyone."

He stuck to this story during 48 hours of intensive questioning in temporary detention quarters in City Hall.

However, Wade said of his case against Oswald: "I have sent men to the electric chair with less evidence. The gun was here, his prints were on the gun, the gun was the gun that killed Kennedy, his palm prints were on the box on which the killer sat, and witnesses put him on the sixth floor at the time of the shooting."

The assassin fired on Kennedy from the sixth floor of the Texas School Book Depository building, which overlooked the route of the President's motorcade. Oswald was a warehouse employee of the firm.

Finally, police decided they would get no information from Oswald. They announced that he would be transferred by armored car from City Hall to a permanent maximum security cell in the Dallas County jail, about a mile away.

Some 200 newsmen and officials gathered in a basement ramp leading from a City Hall elevator to a driveway outside. Other curious spectators stood in bright sunshine outside to await Oswald's emergence.

Oswald, handcuffed, with detectives on either arm, came out of the elevator and took a few steps in the direction of the armored car parked halfway up the inclined ramp.

At that moment, the stocky, conservatively dressed Ruby lunged forward, stuck his pistol flush against Oswald's side and fired a single shot. The roar of the gun was somewhat muffled by its close proximity to the victim's body.

Tore Through Organs

The bullet tore through Oswald's vital midsection organs, although it missed his heart. He was rushed to Parkland Hospital and into an emergency room only a few feet from the one where President Kennedy died.

Some of the same doctors who worked on the President tried just as desperately to save Oswald's life. Blood was administered. His chest was opened and his heart massaged by hand. But Oswald never regained consciousness and died at 1:07 p.m. The shooting occurred at 11:20 a.m.

Ruby owns a strip tease joint, the Carousel, in downtown Dallas about four blocks from police headquarters, and a dance hall, the Vegas, further out. His real last name was Rubinstein. Early in life he was nicknamed "Sparky" because of his volatile nature.

Acquainted With Police
Ruby drove up to City Hall shortly before the Oswald shooting. His background had given him an extensive acquaintance among Dallas policemen and there seemed no apparent reason why his presence amidst officials should be restricted.

Afterwards, Dallas Police Chief Jess Curry explained why Oswald was being transferred in broad daylight.

He told newsmen: "If I hadn't promised you people I would not take Oswald until this morning, we would have taken him during the night. I told you I wouldn't back down on my pledge."

Ruby's single shot ended a strange career for Oswald.

After serving without distinction in the U.S. Marines and receiving a discharge as an undesirable, the New Orleans-born, Communist-converted Oswald went to Moscow in 1959 and announced his intention to renounce his American citizenship and live in the Soviet Union.

Later, Oswald changed his mind. Because he never actually had received Soviet citizenship, he was allowed to return to this country in 1962. With him he brought a petite Russian blonde, whom he had married there and who bore him two children, one 4 years old and the other 22 months old.

All his life, Oswald was known as a loner. It was alone in a crowd that he fell prone on the basement floor of City Hall while pandemonium broke loose above his motionless body.

Mrs. Kennedy Makes Unexpected Night Visit to Husband's Casket

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy went back for a second look at her husband's casket in the Capitol rotunda and pleading, "Let me walk, let me walk," mingled with crowds that mourned the slain President.

The 34-year-old widow of President Kennedy seemed reluctant to leave his casket. With her two children, she had come in a funeral procession Sunday to leave the President's body to lie in state in the Capitol for public viewing by many thousands.

Mrs. Kennedy, with her daughter Caroline beside her, had knelt and kissed the casket before she departed about 2:30 p.m.

Unexpectedly, she was back about 9 o'clock Sunday night, on the arm of her brother-in-law, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, as long lines of people waited to pass the President's bier. She walked slowly by the ropes keeping the public from the casket area and once again knelt and kissed the coffin.

Until she had left it at the Capitol, Mrs. Kennedy had remained near her husband's body since he was slain in Dallas Friday afternoon.

On her sudden nighttime re-appearance, the slow-moving crowd came to a halt. When Mrs. Kennedy rose, she turned her tear-stained face and looked for a long moment at the faces of those who came to pay their respects to her late husband.

As she and the attorney general left, Mrs. Kennedy seemed to look searchingly at the faces of the incoming throng. "Let me walk, let me walk," she said as they descended the Capitol steps. At first Mrs. Kennedy went unrecognized, but soon she was discovered and some followed after her party of police and Secret Service agents.

It was learned Mrs. Kennedy personally had decided on many of the details of the presidential funeral, including the decision that the mourners would walk some eight blocks from the White House as was done at the funeral of Abraham Lincoln, the president slain almost 100 years ago.

Protocol and research experts had brought to the White House plans of the funerals of George Washington, Lincoln, Ulysses S. Grant, Woodrow Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt for guidance.

Mrs. Kennedy, who shared her husband's interest in history, agreed on the marching procession in the streets, a theme dating back to Washington's funeral.

Kennedy's Irish cousin, Miss Mary Ann Ryan in Dublin, was sent a special Kennedy family invitation, relayed by the U. S. Embassy, to come to the funeral. She had entertained Kennedy on his visit to his ancestral home at Dunganstown, Ireland, last summer.

All of the members of the President's family, except his father, Joseph P. Kennedy, 75, had gathered in Washington for the funeral.

His mother, Rose Kennedy, 73, flew from Hyannis Port, Mass., Sunday night and with other members of the family also went to kneel at the casket in the Capitol rotunda.

Joining Mrs. Kennedy at the White House were the attorney general, his wife, Ethel, the President's sisters, Eunice Shriver, Patricia Lawford and Jean Smith, with their husbands, the President's youngest brother, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and his wife, Joan. Also Mrs. Kennedy's younger sister, Lee Radziwill, who flew here from London.

Mrs. Kennedy's mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, who live in nearby Georgetown, were to be at the funeral.

While the President's funeral was under way here, a special private Mass was scheduled at the Cape Cod home of Kennedy's father, who is still suffering from effects of a stroke suffered in December 1961 and could not make the trip here.

Leetonia Adult Education Registration Set 2 Days

LEETONIA — Due to the national day of mourning today, registration for the 17 adult education courses offered by the Leetonia Exempted Village Board of Education will be held Tuesday and Wednesday rather than tonight and Tuesday, Superintendent of Schools Victor Wood reports.

Agriculture Society Picks Officers

Ben Weingart of Leetonia RD was re-elected president of the Columbiana County Agricultural Society Saturday at its annual meeting at the First Christian Church in Lisbon.

Galen Greenisen of Salem RD 2 was elected vice president, succeeding Eddie Thompson of Lisbon, and Atty. Donald Elliott of Rogers and P. R. Corey of Columbiana were re-elected treasurer and concession manager.

Mrs. Velma Cope of Lisbon was re-appointed secretary of the board.

Thompson swore in Greenisen, Weingart and Elliott.

Greenisen was elected grounds manager and a delegate to the Ohio Fair Managers Association convention Jan. 14-16 in Columbus. Ike Skeels of Salem Township was elected alternate.

County Commissioners Walter Hunston of East Palestine and James Boyd of East Liverpool were guests of the board at the dinner meeting which was attended by 27 persons.

After the dinner, the board numbers went to the Morgan Home next door to the church and addressed 450 Christmas greetings which will be sent to 450 agriculture society members and concessionaires.

The fair board's next meeting will be Jan. 8 in the county extension offices at Lisbon.

Hours of registration at the high school are from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and from 7 to 9 p.m. Among night courses offered are speed reading and better English, English workshop, algebra, tailoring, beginning sewing, conversational French, art appreciation, silk screen printing, architectural drawing, men's physical education, trimness for fitness (women), Typing I and II, general business, beginning shorthand, driver education and principles of investment.

Donald Hoover, Leetonia High School teacher, is in charge of the program.

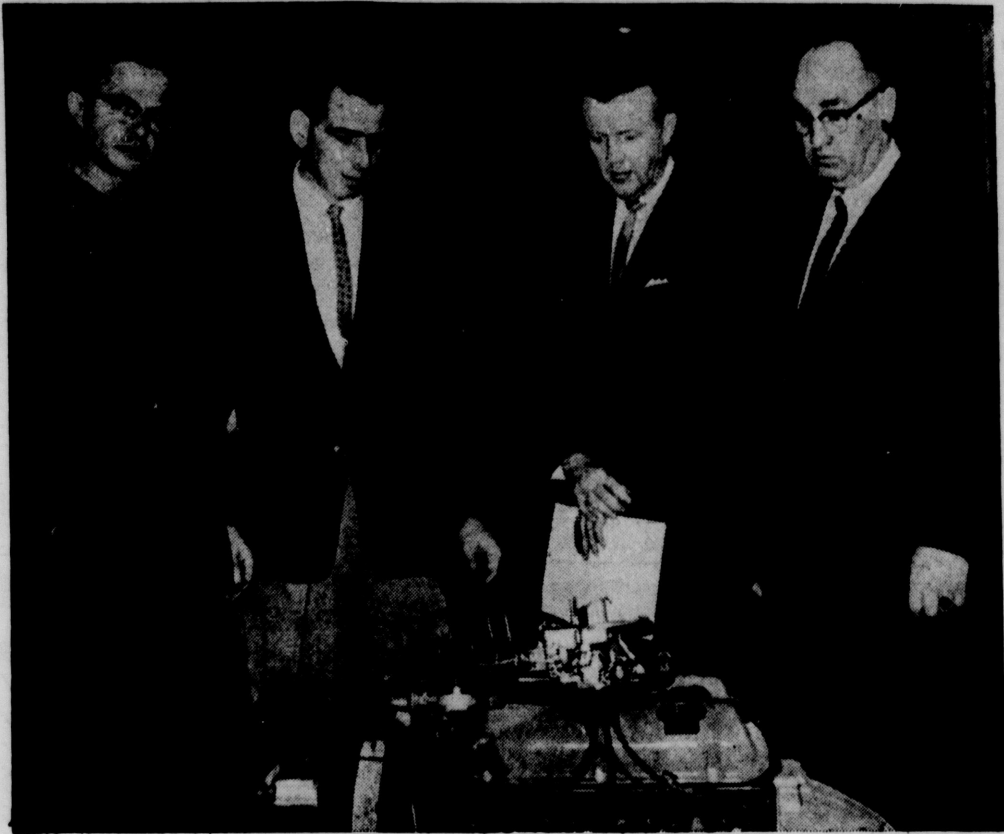

Gang of Youths Damages Youth Club

MASURY, Ohio (AP) — A gang of about 26 youths started a fight early today in the Sky Club on U. S. 62 and caused extensive damage before leaving, the Trumbull County Sheriff's Office reported.

Broken in the brawl between the gang members and three or four club patrons were fifteen bottles of whisky, eight bottles of wine, a large mirror behind the bar, four chairs, four bar stools and six beer glasses, deputies said.

No injuries were reported and no arrests were made as everyone involved in the disturbance had left before deputies arrived.

Nursing Home Fire Fatal To 63 Is Probed by State

NORWALK, Ohio (AP)—The Huron County sheriff's office said identification was completed today on the last five bodies of the 63 elderly patients who died in a fire at the Golden Age Nursing Home near Fitchville.

Experts continued, meanwhile probing the rubble at the home 15 miles southeast of here for the cause of the blaze.

Making his second visit to the scene of the pre-dawn fire Saturday that destroyed the one-story concrete block building, Gov. James A. Rhodes talked with local officials Sunday and pledged "an all-out, intense investigation" by the State Fire Marshal's Office and the Ohio Highway Patrol.

The governor also visited Fisher-Titus Memorial Hospital in Norwalk, where five of the survivors still were confined.

The last missing body, identified as Andrew Pavulus, 77, of Cleveland, was recovered from the gutted building as dozens of investigators searched the ruins for clues. A crane and several bulldozers were used to move the heavy debris.

Twenty-one patients and the three nurses on duty when the fire broke out were rescued in the nation's worst fire tragedy since 95 persons lost their lives in a Chicago school fire in 1958.

Mrs. Ruth Shepherd, manager of the home, spent an hour at the temporary morgue in the Fitchville Elementary School Sunday assisting in identifying bodies.

Only 29 bodies had been claimed by relatives late Sunday and the remaining 34 were taken to the Fitchville American Legion Home. Dr. Holman said all unclaimed bodies would be distributed to funeral homes in the area at noon today for burial arrangements.

Rhodes said Harold Carter of the State Fire Marshal's Office would "investigate this disaster until the cause is determined, and may make recommendations to forestall other fires like this."

Carter took a statement from John J. Minier, a Sandusky truck driver who was one of the first persons on the scene after the fire started.

Minier told newsmen the fire started above the electric light box outside the building.

"At first there wasn't too much smoke or flame but within 15 minutes the place was filled with smoke," he said. "We had to stop helping them then."

Also playing major roles in the rescue work were Henry Dahman, a truck driver from Sarben, Pa., and Clifford French, 21, who is attending Midwest Baptist Seminary at Pontiac, Mich. They were traveling in opposite directions along U.S. 50 when they spotted the fire.

Robert W. Pollack of Cleveland, owner of the corporation that owned the home, said many more patients might have been saved if they had not panicked. He said they ran back to their beds instead of going out the doors.

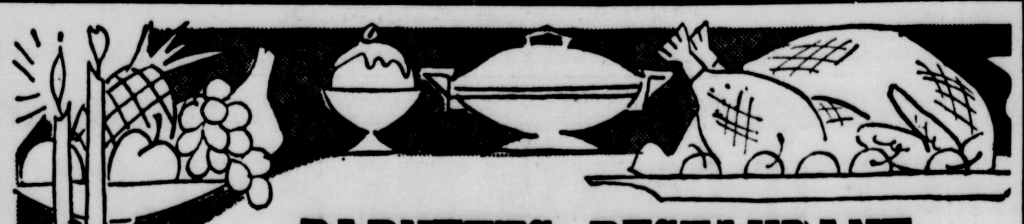

Damascus

Rev. Paul E. Froman, Mrs. Paul Buttermore, Mrs. Herbert Mercer and Mrs. John A. Blasi-man attended a teachers training session of the Steubenville

District at the Lisbon Methodist Church Thursday. Purpose of the event was to introduce a new curriculum for Christian education of children of the Methodist churches, which will begin in September, 1964.

Mrs. Henrietta Bullard accompanied Mrs. Frank Grace of Salem to Leetonia, where they called on her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. John Wormer and Mrs. Russell Schive.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Pim are spending the winter in Dade City, Fla.

2 Motorists Cited After Road Mishaps

Salem and Canfield area motorists were cited for traffic violations following weekend area highway mishaps. In four incidents investigated by Lisbon and Canfield posts of the State Highway Patrol, none of the persons involved were hurt.

Rogers Brown, 32, of RD 3, Salem, was cited for driving left of center by the Lisbon Patrol after his car went off the left side of Route 344, three-tenths of a mile east of Route 45, Saturday night at 10 and struck a tree.

Oscar L. McCammon, 71, of 192 W. 5th St., Salem escaped injury in a three-car mishap in Boardman Saturday at 2:25 p.m. near McDonald's Drive-In. The Canfield Patrol said Mrs. Helen M. Bert was pulling from the restaurant parking lot across two lanes of traffic on Route 224 when McCammon, traveling east in the left turn lane, stopped his car. McCammon's auto was struck from the rear by a car operated by James H. Williams of Youngstown. The impact knocked the Salem auto into Mrs. Bert's, causing minor damage to both. Mrs. Bert was cited for failure to yield the right of way.

Two one-car mishaps resulted in vehicular damage only. William Williams, 26, of Wellsville, traveling south on Township Rd. 1002, about a mile northeast of Route 45, was forced off the road by a northbound vehicle Saturday at 1 p.m.

Clifford Browne, 20, of Hudson, N.Y., was cited for speed excessive for conditions after a mishap Sunday at 12:30 a.m. on Route 30, six miles west of Lisbon. The Lisbon Patrol said Browne rounded a curve, veered off the right side of the road, crashed through a guard rail and went over an embankment.

Everhart, Earley, Spack, Begalla Given Grid Awards

225 Persons Honor Athletes at Dinner

By MARK W. MILLER
News Sports Editor

Four Salem High School athletes were given major awards during the program of the Boosters Club annual football banquet at Salem Senior High School cafeteria before 225 persons Saturday night.

Eddie Finnigan, who heads health and physical education departments and coaches football and track at Western Reserve University, was guest speaker.

His four-point message was on characteristics that make a great athlete.

Salem Coach Don Clarico presented the most improved player trophy to Dennis Everhart, a 180-lb. junior who played center.

Quarterback Larry Earley was given the Knights of Columbus award for scholastic and athletic achievement by Joe Loutzenhiser, Jr.

End Art Spack was given the most valuable lineman trophy, and George Begalla was the recipient of the Salem News most valuable player award.

MINIATURE GOLD footballs were presented from the Boosters to each senior. Clarico then gave each boy a picture of himself glued in a unique pattern to a piece of wood. A similar gift was given to the Salem cheerleaders.

He also gave his co-captains, Gary Starbuck and Begalla, plaques.

Starbuck, representing the squad, presented Clarico with a gift certificate.

Chuck Joseph and Everhart were introduced as next year co-captains. The two boys were chosen by their teammates in an election held at the end of the season.

CLARICO BRIEFLY commented on the 1963 campaign. He said, "We have learned a lot and hope to profit by our mistakes next year. The Quakers finished with a 3-7 record.

Varsity staff members Don Bennett, Marlin Davidson, Dick Shultz and Mike Guappone, as well as freshmen coaches Bob Carbaugh and Bing Newton, were introduced by Clarico.

He expressed appreciation to everybody who helped with the football program, including Paul Smith, superintendent of schools, Wayne Grinnen, senior high principal, the Board of Education, Boosters Club, parents of players and other persons.

Athletic Director Fred Cope pointed out that he thought the season was worthwhile, mentioning the three boys, Begalla, Spack and Starbuck, who landed on the Columbiana County All-Star team.

"SPIRITUAL SOUNDNESS is the first thing I look for in a boy, one who believes in church and practices his faith," said Finnigan.

"Courage is the next thing I look for, a person who will give unselfish sacrifice, commented the guest speaker.

Excellence, doing something better than anyone else, and self-respect were the final attributes of great athletes, as pointed out by Finnigan.

"In 31 years of coaching, I have lived with the finest boys, and I have had only four losing seasons during that time," said Finnigan.

Earley, Spack and Starbuck. John Callahan, Cody Goard, Jim Hammond, Leslie Hardy, Tom Hutson, Joe Loutzenhiser, Guy Mauro, Doc Panozotti, Dave Porteous, Jack Rea, Harold Schramm, Dyer Scott, Dale Shasteen, Mike Swetye, Carl Taylor, Jim Vaughn, Chuck Joseph, Everhart, and Terry Yakubeck were juniors introduced.

Representing the sophomore group introduced were Rick Alcesi, Tod Chappell, Buzz Fisher, Dave Fleischer, Dave Gittleman, Ron Hofmann, Lynn Kelly, Rick Klepper, Jim Lantz, Pat Mundy, Jay Oana, Ralph Price, Joe Rottenborn, Ray Seibert, Bob Whitman and Ed Gross.

COPE INTRODUCED cheerleaders Bunny Kaercher, Diane Everhart, Mitzi Garrett, Carol Porter, Darlene Smith and Judy Pelly; and the queen and her court Judy Pelley, Pat Coffman, Mitzi Garrett, Lois Whinnery, Nancy Houger and Judy Filler. Master of ceremonies for the event was Albert Hanna. Rev. Daniel Keister of Holy Trinity English Lutheran Church gave the invocation.

Members of the banquet included Clair Leeper, Dick Loutzenhiser, Arnold Kovach, Eugene Strojek, Walter DeJane, Martin Debnar, Ken Evert, Filler, Cope and Clarico.

Previous most valuable player awards presented by the Salem News went to Henry Maxim in 1957; Ralph Ehrhart, 1958; Joe Julian and Fred Phillis, 1959; Ron Janovac, 1960; Dave Edling and Fred Kaiser, 1961, and Bill Beery, 1962.

Cards Trim Giants 24-17; Washington Edges Eagles 13-10

Crowds Pack Stadiums To Watch NFL Clashes; Steelers, Bears Tie 17-17

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The crowds were sombre. But the stands were filled.

That was Sunday, some 48 hours after the assassination of President Kennedy, as the National Football League staged its seven-game program on schedule despite vigorous verbal protests from some quarters and players openly shaken by tragedy.

"I cried when I heard Mr. Kennedy had been killed," said San Francisco tackle Bob St. Clair. "I didn't really want to play," said Washington receiver Bobby Mitchell. "I guess I feel like everyone else. I've lost a brother."

But after memorial ceremonies were conducted before the games at the seven cities, St. Clair and Mitchell and some 500 other NFL players took the field. The stands were filled, with few exceptions.

At Pittsburgh, the Steelers played to a 17-17 tie with the Chicago Bears before the biggest crowd of the season at Forbes Field, 36,465. And, at Los Angeles, where the Rams edged Baltimore 17-16, a crowd of 48,555 was on hand, largest since opening day.

Elsewhere, there were some seats left vacant by ticketholders who stayed home, and club spokesmen said refunds would be made to those who had bought tickets but did not attend the games. But there will be few refunds.

A sellout crowd of 62,992 was in New York's Yankee Stadium as St. Louis defeated the Giants 24-17, a sellout of 45,905 at Milwaukee saw Green Bay beat San Francisco 23-10 and 55,096 were at Cleveland as the Browns defeated Dallas 27-17.

At Minneapolis - St. Paul, where 20,000 copies of the Star Spangled Banner were distributed to fans, a crowd of 23,763 witnessed the Vikings' 34-31 victory over Detroit. And the last 1,500 tickets were sold just before game time at Philadelphia, where 60,671 saw Washington's 13-10 victory over the Eagles.

Redskins' Coach Bill McPeak said the team will send the game ball to the White House as a symbol of the deep feeling the Washington players felt for the late President Kennedy. Team Plays For Kennedy

"I don't want to be morbid or corny," said McPeak, "but I really feel our gang was playing today for President Kennedy and in his memory."

"We were very surprised that Commissioner Pete Rozelle decided to have the game played. We at first thought it a bad idea. But then we were told we were to play, so we decided that this is the way President Kennedy would have wanted it."

At the same time the American Football League postponed its four-game program.

"Everyone has a different way of paying respects," he said. "I went to church and I imagine many of the people at the games did too. I cannot feel that playing the games was disrespectful."

The players had mixed reaction. Giants' linebacker Sam Huff had this to say:

"I feel depressed. I feel as bad about it as anybody. But staying home and moping around wouldn't do any good. That is our life. The people who don't like it, that's their right."

"Maybe that's what the President died for."

next Sunday at St. Louis. Just a week ago the potent Cardinals knocked the Browns out of a first-place tie, 20-14. Sunday they boosted the Browns back to the top and moved in alongside with New York to make it a three-way stretch drive by beating the Giants 24-17.

After the Cardinal contest, the Browns have two more on the road against Detroit and Washington. New York has Dallas, Washington and Pittsburgh to contend with, while the Cards face Philadelphia and Dallas after the encounter with the Browns.

Fank Ryan, benched last week after several lack-lustre games, came back to the firing line as starting quarterback against the Cowboys. He completed 13 of 26 passes for 162 yards, including touchdown tosses of 11 and 16 yards to Gary Collins. That gave Collins 10 scoring receptions for the year, erasing the club record of nine set in 1947 by Dante Lavelle. Dante did it in 14 games, Gary in 11.

Brown's 51 yards hiked his season's league-leading total to 1,498, 29 short of his loop record of 1,527 in 12 games set in 1958. As the Cowboys keyed on Big Jim, Ernie Green broke loose from halfback for 97 yards in seven carries, including one blast of 51 yards.

Lou Groza, best place-kicker the league has ever seen, boosted his scoring total to 66 for the year with field goals of 24 and 10 yards and three conversions. He has 11 field goals and 33 extra points.

It was a somber contest. The players were not introduced prior to the game. The flag was placed at half-staff and the crowd observed a moment of silence in tribute to the late President Kennedy. No bands played, and the half-time show was a short exhibition between two teams of kids.

Marsh Samuel, Browns' public relations director, said the club had received 75 or 80 calls protesting playing of the game while the President lay in state, but he explained that the club had no option after the league commissioner had ordered the schedule adhered to. There were few outbursts from the crowd, even in the sensational spots.

The Browns moved 73 yards in nine plays for the first Ryan-Colins touchdown. Sam Baker booted a 20-yard three-pointer for Dallas, and Groza countered with a 24-yarder as Cleveland led 10-3 at the quarter. Lou made it 13-3 with a 10-yard field goal early in the second, and then Dallas' Amos Marsh went 20 for the touchdown that made it 13-10 at the half.

In the fourth period, Ross Fitchner pulled down an enemy aerial and raced 36 yards into the end zone. Then Paul Wiggins snared one, but the Browns had to punt. Next Galen Fiss took one on the Cowboy 40 and ran to the 35. Three plays later Ryan tossed his 20th touchdown pass of 16 yards to Collins. That made it 27-10, and Green's marker on Brown's fumble in the closing seconds was just an added thrill.

OU Garners MAC Crown; Ohio State, Michigan Tilt Rescheduled Saturday

By HAL PARIS
 "We started our big push with Western Michigan and now we are the champs."
 That was the reaction of jubilant Bill Hess after Ohio University blanked Marshall 17-0 to capture the Mid-American Conference football crown Saturday.
 The Bobcat coach, elated over the triumph, added:
 "Look how they came back from defeat. We got clobbered pretty good by Xavier, but these kids didn't quit. They made up their minds to win and they did."

 It was the BIG game in the grid windup for the few Ohio schools that saw action. The death of President Kennedy virtually wiped out half the schedule, though.
 The traditional tussle between Ohio State and Michigan at Ann Arbor was rescheduled for Saturday, Nov. 30, and the finale between arch-rivals Miami and Cincinnati was reset for Thanksgiving Day. The Detroit-Toledo game was canceled.
 Elsewhere, Bowling Green, although unable to cop an unprecedented third straight MAC championship, finished another successful season with a 26-15 victory over Xavier. Kent State dumped Dayton 23-0 and Youngstown fell to Eastern Kentucky 34-14.
 Ohio's decision climaxed a tremendous uphill comeback as the Bobcats won their final three games, all in the league.

Nebraska, Texas Nail Down Berths For Major Bowl Games

By BOB GREEN
 Associated Press Sports Writer
 Most of the nation's major colleges, stunned and shocked by the death of the President, have delayed until this weekend their football day of decision.
 Only two teams, Texas and Nebraska, have nailed down major bowl berths and only Nebraska accomplished it last weekend. Still to be decided are both teams in the Rose and Sugar bowls, and the visiting teams in Orange and Cotton bowls.
 Most were scheduled for settlement last weekend, but were postponed because of the assassination of President Kennedy.

 The traditional clash between Army and Navy, scheduled in Philadelphia Saturday, still is in doubt. Officials of both service institutions have expressed a desire to play, however, so the chances of cancellation appear to be remote.
 Navy, ranked second at 8-1 and possessing the season's most highly publicized player in quarterback Roger Staubach, is a solid favorite to make it five in a row over Army, 7-2.
 The Middles are considered prime candidates for the Cotton Bowl, to oppose top-ranked Texas. The Longhorns, the nation's only major unbeaten, untied team at 9-0, already have clinched the host spot in the Cotton Bowl. They close the regular season against old foe Texas A&M, 2-6-1.
 Nebraska won the Big Eight title, its first in 23 years, and clinched the Orange Bowl spot in one of the few games played Saturday. The 10th-ranked Huskers rolled over No. 6 Oklahoma 29-20.
 The only other member of the top ten in action was No. 9 Auburn, which advanced its record to 8-1 with a 21-15 victory over Florida State. Auburn plays seventh-ranked Alabama at Tuscaloosa Saturday, with both considered leading candidates for a major bowl berth.
 Games in East Lansing, Mich. Los Angeles and Seattle, all postponed from last Saturday, will determine the Rose Bowl opponents.
 Michigan State, ranked fourth, and Illinois, ranked eighth, play at East Lansing Thursday. Each has a 6-1 record. The winner gets the Big Ten title and the visiting spot in the Rose Bowl.
 The host role will be determined Saturday in the Washington-Washington State and Southern California-UCLA games. A victory for Washington probably would clinch it, with a loss throwing the spot to Southern Cal, providing the Trojans beat UCLA.
 The Sugar Bowl is still wide open. Chief contenders appear to be Auburn, Alabama, Mississippi, and Pitt.

Hunting New Home? Here Are Timely Tips

Almost everybody will give serious thought to buying a home at some time in his life. The urge to sink roots is born deep in every soul. This year, it may be your turn to catch the homeownership bug.

That's well and good. But take care. Buying a house is a big step: a most important investment in living, happiness and money. So it pays to give it some pretty hard thought: even before you set foot outside the front door to start your search or phone a real-estate agent.

Here are seven house-hunting hints from the American Bankers Association. Heed them well. For the bankers know what they're talking about. Processing and granting mortgage loans are an important part of their daily business:

ONE: Figure finances first. Then you will know exactly where you stand and can plan accordingly. arm yourself with all the facts and figures on your personal money matters. Then talk things over with your banker. He can help you decide how much house you can afford, how big a loan you will need, and what kind of mortgage is best for you. Also, he knows all the reputable builders and brokers in the area. And more important, he is just as anxious as you are for the success of your home-buying project and its financing. For he wants a happy relationship with home buyers in his community.

TWO: Determine desires and needs of your family. Plan ahead. Consider long-range requirements. Will you need more room as your family grows? Will your house still be in style twenty years from now? Study room layout and over-all property. Be prepared to compromise. You probably won't find a home that meets all your requirements as well as your price range.

THREE: Background yourself on home construction, design, layout, and landscaping. You can get a lot of good ideas with just a little reading. National home magazines, your local newspaper, and building trade publications are always printing articles on these subjects. So make a trip to your local library. It will pay you dividends.

FOUR: Select your neighborhood with care. Pick one that will give you a thrill of pride every time you approach. But don't select a neighborhood that's too expensive, and over your head: Remember that trying to keep up with the Jones' can be disastrous. Check school, fire, and police protection, place of worship, shopping, recreation or social facilities, and transportation; especially the cost of commuting to work. Also consider excessive traffic noise, smoke or unpleasant odors, and zoning restrictions. Finally, figure assessment, taxes, utility, and the cost of other community services. But remember a wholesome environment to rear your family is sometimes worth certain inconveniences. Above all, be patient. Keep looking. And consult your banker and real estate agent.

FIVE: Consider the homesite. Ask yourself these questions: Is the property attractive? Does it afford privacy? Are the yards big enough? Do walks provide access to front and service entrances? Does driveway give easy access to garage? Is lot sloped for satisfactory and effective drainage? What about planting? Is there enough top soil? Are all areas around foundations filled in? Are there depressions or signs of excessive ground settlement? Where is the sewer connection? If a septic tank or cesspool is used, where is it? Are there set back restrictions, zoning ordinances, or easements?

SIX: Mark maintenance costs. Keep in mind tomorrow's bills. Upkeep varies with age, size, location and construction of a house. Unpainted brick or stone, for example, is cheaper to maintain than frame, stucco, or painted brick. A well-insulated home costs less to heat and cool. If the house is not new, ask the owner for his utility, tax, insurance, and repair bills for the past year. There may be times when maintenance costs reach a point that it will pay to install new equipment. Remember then you can get a loan from your bank to repair, improve, or modernize the house if your credit is good.

SEVEN: Review resale value. Buy your home mainly for family comfort and enjoyment. Don't consider it primarily as an investment. But don't overlook resale value either. Consider good basic design that will outlive temporary trends; also adequate space. When in doubt, ask your local banker for his opinion. He's had lots of experience in evaluating homes and property.

Building Permits

Building permits were issued by the engineer's office in City Hall in recent days for:

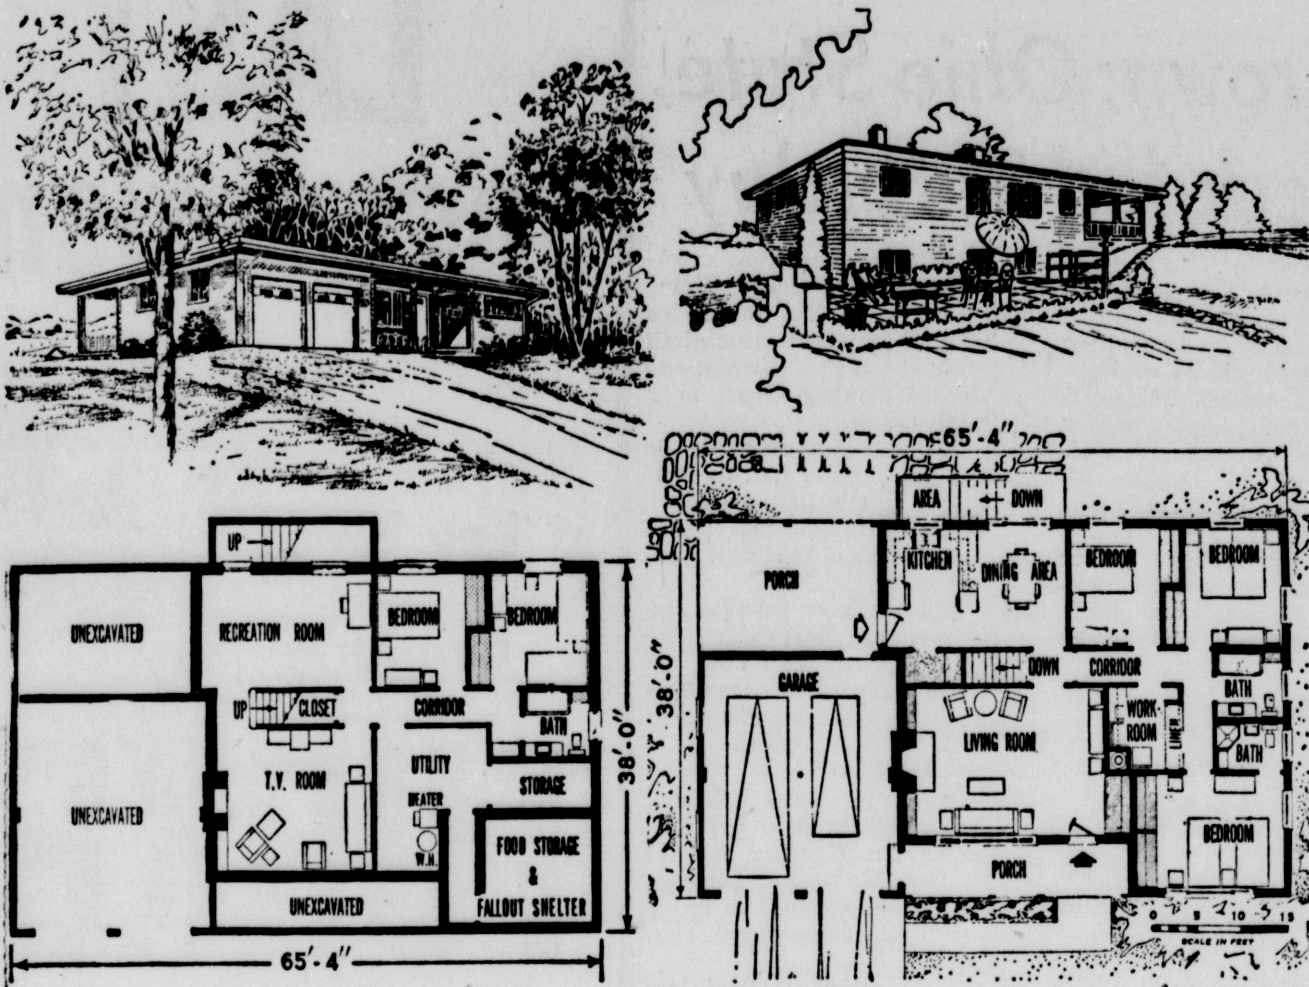

Garage extension, Florence Schnorrenberg, 418 Columbia St., $300.

Two-room addition, Steve Hoffman, 1537 Ridgewood Drive, $3,200.

Enclose porch, Oliver Conser, 1431 Franklin Ave., $500.

Office building, George C. Bowman, 140 Penn Ave., $1,850.

This Is Farmhouse Designed For the Future

The hunt is on for an ideal farm home. A two-level, five-bedroom luxury farmhouse that provides for a fallout shelter has been developed by housing experts in 11 state universities and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Sketches above show the front of the house, left, and rear, right. On the main level, there are three bedrooms, two baths, a workroom, a U-shaped kitchen, dining room and a living room. The basement level has two bedrooms, a bath, a TV room, a recreation room with its own outside entrance and a furnace-utility room. Space is provided in one corner for a fallout shelter.

Working drawings of Plan No. 7153 can be obtained from agricultural extension engineers at most state agricultural colleges for a small charge.

Knowing About Your House Aids In Time of Emergency

Every year, thousands of houses are sold to persons who always get a repair man when you want him, especially if you need him over a weekend. And it is over a weekend when, sad to relate, so many house troubles have a curious way of occurring.

One way to avoid serious trouble in this area is to learn a little something about your house. If you know the location of the shut-off water valves, for instance, you can prevent a leak from turning into a flood. It's a good idea not only to know which valves handle which water lines, but to mark them with tags so that other members of the family will know, too. If there is a leak, shutting off the proper valve will stop the water from doing further damage and yet not interfere with the movement of water to other parts of the house.

THE SAME THING HOLDS true in the matter of electric fuses. Spare fuses of the proper amperage should always be kept on hand. But the fuse box should be so marked that you know precisely which fuse handles which circuit in the house. Then you won't have to guess or test which fuse to change when the lights in one part of the house go out.

Clogged drains or plumbing lines can be a major headache if they occur at an inopportune time. A first-time home owner is wise to invest in a plunger of "plumber's friend," a snake and some chemical drain cleaner. Sometimes the use of one or all three of these can bring about indefinite relief when there is a drain stoppage and sometimes there will be temporary relief until a plumber can be obtained.

The main point is that the home owner should realize there will be times when he can not get assistance and when a little knowledge will go a long way. The time to acquire that knowledge is when he first buys the house and not when the emergency occurs.

Here's the Answer

QUESTION: We need an extra medicine cabinet in our bathroom. While I know that I can buy a cabinet and attach it directly to the wall, I would like to make the cabinet and then set it into the wall like the other cabinet. Can you tell me something about making the opening in the wall?

ANSWER: Our first advice is not to build the cabinet until you have first opened the wall. While the cabinet should be located between two studs, which usually are 16 inches apart on center, the distance occasionally is a little more or a little less than that. By waiting until you determine the exact distance, you can make the cabinet fit exactly without any last-minute adjusting.

After deciding where you want the cabinet to be, drill a hole into the wall and then another and another, until you locate a stud. This will enable you to start cutting in the proper place. Use a compass or similar saw after making a hole large enough for the saw. Don't worry too much about irregularities, since they will be covered by molding and the front of the cabinet.

Once the opening has been cut and the cabinet built to fit, it is a simple matter to screw the sides of the cabinet into the studs.

Some parts of the outside of our house has started to blister. We had a paint job done a little over a year ago. We keep everything in good condition. The house is insulated, weather-stripped, etc. Can you tell us what is causing this blistering?

ANSWER: Exterior paint blistering usually results from excessive moisture within the house which can not escape except through the walls. It goes through the walls, condensing into water as it hits the cooler inside surface of the siding and then pushing through the outer paint coating.

It rarely happened years ago when houses were not of such tight construction. The moisture then could escape easily with-

FAILED RESPONSIBILITY

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — The church must consider whether it can do a more adequate job of preparing young people for marriage, Juvenile Court Judge John R. Mulligan Jr. suggested recently to a Catholic men's club.

Noting that most divorces filed involve marriages of three years or less, the judge said:

"It is quite apparent that the family and the church have failed in their responsibility to prepare young people for marriage, and that unless the responsibility is recognized and assumed, the tragic trend will continue."

The stomach of the grebe invariably contains a ball of its own feathers.

A word from THERON at the Country Store

There is not an hour in any day when we are open that someone doesn't come in for their first visit.

Its almost amazing the number of different people who visit the Country Store. Since we are not located on a main highway, just about everyone comes out of their way to get here. If they are satisfied they come back again and send their friends.

I had a fellow tell me the other night he stops in everytime he is within ten miles of our place. He likes our 5c coffee, the delicious hamburgs and the atmosphere.

Dairy Co-op Meetings

Dairy farmer members of the Dairymen's Co-Operative Sales Association throughout Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and West Virginia attended the annual meetings of the Association held recently. These meetings were held in the form of 93 local meetings scheduled throughout the tri-state marketing and producing area.

In commenting on the annual meetings, S. B. Wells, President of the Association from Wood County, West Virginia, stated, "It's very gratifying that some 4,500 farm-people turned out to discuss the business of their marketing co-op and to learn about the trends and pressures that bring about the particular marketing program."

Elected to the board of directors were Robert M. Simeral, R.D. 2, Adena, representing District "B" covering the Wheeling, Barnesville, Steubenville and East Liverpool area; S. B. Wells, New England, W. Va., representing District "I", Paul M. Ingram, Sistersville, W. Va., representing District "J," and Frank McKinney, Monongahela, Pa., representing District "L." Mr. Wells, Mr. Ingram and Mr. McKinney were re-elected to the Board while Mr. Simeral, who had previously served on the Wheeling Marketing Committee and as officer of the DCSA Local of which he is a member, was chosen for the first time to serve in his District. This District was formerly represented by William B. Warrick of Barnesville.

Other embers of the DCSA Board of Directors are: District "A" — Howard L. Smith of Clarion County, Pa.; District "C" — Robert Woofler of Trumbull County, District "D" — Paul Bullard of Ashtabula County, District "E" — C. A. Houlette of Columbiana, District "G" — N. E. Sampson of Lawrence County, Pa., and District "H" — J. M. Hauger of Somerset County, Pa.

Lunch was served. The group will meet at Aldom's Restaurant in Alliance for a Christmas dinner and exchange of gifts at 7 p.m. December 11.

JOLLY NEIGHBORS Farm WOMEN'S Club members were entertained by Mrs. Barry Fowler Thursday when roll call was answered by telling "What I Really Want for Christmas."

During the business session, officers were elected. They are: Mrs. Nello Arsuffi, president; Mrs. Richard Gologram, vice president; and Mrs. Robert Hoffman, secretary and treasurer.

Lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Robert Cline. Arrangements were made to serve a casserole Christmas dinner at the home of Mrs. Arsuffi Dec. 11 when secret sisters will be revealed in a gift exchange.

Bunker Hill
